These influencers as society has labeled them have created a digital empire by snapping a few semi-filtered shots with one hand, while promoting the latest trend with the other. Their credibility comes through an influx of social engagement, which occurs while building an influence that is rewarded with products, money, and sometimes even fame.

&lt; 10,000 Followers

Some occasional money may come in, but most influencers are hesitant to start charging at this stage since it may delegitimize their growing success.

But it doesn't even need to be a picture on their feed that brings in the cash.

8.00 per post. Those with under 100,000 followers average $200.00 per post, but these numbers often vary account to account. Most accounts in this level are instead, gifted with free products or discounts for posting.
