However, the improvements were just an interim effort designed to extend the li fe of the building for another five to eight years while a more permanent, long-term strategy becomes clear for the facility.

Per that legislation, the XL Center was identified as one of 15 possible facili ties around the State where in-person sports wagering may be conducted and CRDA has been working with the Connecticut Lottery Corporation to develop the concept

. This facility will operate on both event and non-event days, providing a vibran t new lounge space for patrons with a view of the arena bowl.

The study concluded that a comprehensive transformation of the existing structu re was the most practical option and presented a concept plan for such a transfo rmation.

Also included in the plan were options for addressing the security, accessibili ty, code, and circulation issues that currently hamper XL Center operations.

With the XL Center essentially landlocked by Asylum, Ann Uccello, and Church St reets, the practical solution would be to acquire the atrium and adjacent space along Trumbull Street.
