As we mentioned, Twitter isn't the only place where you can find free football tips online today.

We believe that this isn't really necessary in this day and age, as there is such a wealth of information out there online for free.

Of course, if you are involved in sports betting on a fairly regular basis, it is so only natural that you then want to find a service that provides you with tipster updates as regularly as possible.

Whether this is through followers that are commenting on tips, banter going back and forth between players, or even just exciting news pieces that are posted on the same account, you can engage with it all.

If we are going to face facts, it would be pretty easy these days to set up a Twitter account and claim to be winning every single bet that we have predicted.

Unfortunately, there are people that tend to do this in this day and age, but as you can imagine, there is no authenticity behind operating in this way.

You kind of get an idea for the vibe of this Twitter account by one of the taglines that are posted on the page, as it states that 'James Murphy has managed to transform a measly 25 into 1K more times than the famous Ronaldinho has had eyebrow waxing done! Obviously there's an element of humour to how Murphy actually operates this account, but he has performed rather well in football betting tips during his relatively short period of posting football tips.

As much as we believe that the proof is in the pudding with free football tipster services, it is always good to find an account where the operator has some kind of involvement with betting in the first place.
