Michigan's tribal casinos may permit players that are eighteen and older to participate in their games but some may ask that players be at least twenty-one, as it is up to the individual tribal casinos' discretion.

Thankfully, players who are eighteen and over can enjoy playing real money games in the Wolverine State's casinos without prosecution. These casinos operate outside of the United States, thus ensuring you are not personally breaking any laws.

What Michigan Casinos Are 18 and Up?

This is because tribal casinos are exempt from being regulated under state laws and state gaming authorities as they have their own tribal gaming boards.

In Michigan, 18-year-olds can play the state lottery, engage in parimutuel betting on horses, and access tribal casinos that allow 18+ patrons.

However, some Michigan tribal casinos require players to be at least 21 if they are serving alcohol on their premises.

The online casinos listed on this page accept Michigan residents over eighteen, however, we cannot speak for those destinations that are not included in our recommended brands.
