And first at bat is betting.

And if a starter ends up not playing, you can always get off position and wiggle your way out of it.

They pay three players more than a billion dollars, and they're currently four games under .

And then there's Shohei Ohtani because, of course, you can't talk MLB without talking Shohei.

Which team will score more runs and how many will they have? American, 6

I don't know if that's very bold, but I hope it happens.

And now a trigger warning, Angelinos and Dodgers faithful, because our buddy Sam's bold bet might have you feeling blue.

"The Dodgers are heavily favored to make the playoffs, but I wouldn't mind betting $10 to win $70 or $100 to win $700 for them to miss.

A majority of states allow daily fantasy sports, but not all states have given licenses to the same operators.

You must draft individual players to form a lineup and cannot draft just an entire single team.

DraftKings and FanDuel are not allowed to operate in the state, but USFantasy does have a DFS license.

Despite having an operating license, the USFantasy app is still awaiting approval by Nevada's gaming control board. Washington

You can try a diverse array of bet types, from straight/win bets and over-unders to parlays and proposition bets.

Of course, all of the different bets and styles of odds expression can make sports betting feel like there's a huge barrier to entry.

While operators like FanDuel and DraftKings are adding more sports to their offerings, you're still going to find only the sports with the broadest and most robust followings - no arm wrestling or rock, paper, scissors here.

In fact, Sports Business Journal published a study in 2015 that said 91% of the profits from DFS sites went to the top 1.
